In a compelling departure from conventional classroom dynamics, the senior students of our esteemed institution have recently taken the helm as educators in an insightful and creative initiative known as the "Flip Classroom" assignment. Orchestrated by the visionary Mr. Jeffrey Love in the 12th Grade English Class, this novel approach has remarkably transformed the way students interact with and comprehend poetry, a pivotal component of their Term curriculum.

Embracing the Educator's Role

This groundbreaking assignment entrusted our senior students with an intriguing role reversal: stepping into the shoes of a teacher. The journey commenced with each student selecting a poem not merely based on personal affinity but more significantly for the literary depth and richness it embodies.

Rigorous Research and In-depth Analysis

Embarking on an extensive research voyage, students meticulously unraveled the life and legacy of their chosen poets. Their exploration transcended the poets' biographies, delving into their distinctive literary styles, historical milieu, and the profound influences that sculpted their poetic expressions. Furthermore, the students embarked on a critical examination of their selected poems,

Crafting the Lesson: A Multifaceted Approach

At the heart of the "Flip Classroom" assignment was the creation of a comprehensive lesson plan, mirroring the multifaceted nature of poetry. Students meticulously addressed various dimensions of their chosen poems, encompassing:

- Structure: Delving into the poem's architecture, analyzing meter, rhyme, and stanzaic patterns.
- Meaning: A profound dissection of the poem's core message, its thematic essence, and the emotions it kindles.

- Imagery and Language: A detailed exploration of the poet's artistic arsenal, spotlighting metaphorical nuances, symbolic undertones, and the sensory tapestry woven through words.
- Effect: A reflection on the poem's overarching impact, gauging its influence on the reader, the emotional resonance it triggers, and its enduring legacy.

The Transformation into Teachers

Equipped with their meticulously crafted lesson plans, the seniors transitioned into the educator's role, eloquently presenting their insights to their peers. This segment of the assignment was not just an academic exercise but a holistic development opportunity, polishing their public speaking, presentation, and pedagogical skills.

A Resounding Educational Triumph

The "Flip Classroom" assignment stands as a testament to innovative learning, catalyzing a profound appreciation for poetry among our students. This immersive endeavor underscored the significance of active, participatory learning, propelling students to engage with literature in a more dynamic, personal, and profoundly impactful manner.

As we reflect on the success of this unique educational venture, it's evident that the "Flip Classroom" assignment has not only enriched our students' literary understanding but also equipped them with invaluable skills, laying a robust foundation for their future academic and professional pursuits.

Republic Day, a momentous occasion in our nation's history, was celebrated with great fervour and enthusiasm at Corvuss American Academy. The festivities commenced with the proud unfurling of the tricolour flag in the school premises. The national flag, fluttering proudly in the breeze, served as a symbol of our unity, diversity, and the democratic values we hold dear. Following the flag hoisting, our Student Council Vice President, Ahaan De, took the stage to deliver a stirring speech that echoed the principles and ideals enshrined in our constitution. To add a delightful touch to the celebration, the school community indulged in the sweetness of traditional Indian treats like samosas and laddus.
